by Paul C. Summitt

Editor's Note: In a recent letter to us and in recent phone conversations, Paul C. has voiced some concern about presenting his family history having written articles for the last two issues of the newsletters. After much discussion, we managed to convince him that we can present this as an example and as a template of how others among our readers can provide their family history for publication here. We are proud to present Paul C.'s work in these pages and we look forward to receiving information from you all for publication in this newsletter.
